I would be lying if I said we were not anxious about our son's transition to KLB; however, early on in year 6, we received great communication via email and letter and extra visits were arranged so that my son could get a feel for things before he started. Before day 1, we received a plan for his first day to help relieve the stress of things and, whenever a problem has occurred, I felt I could email my concerns and get a positive response really quickly so that we could work together to come up with a plan of action. My son's input was also listened to and considered fairly. It made him feel that he did matter. I have to say that the transition went better than we could have hoped for
